Section 4. GENERAL PROVISIONS FOR USE OF GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

2. Employees, whether acting in an official capacity or on any other basis, must not interfere with, or attempt to interfere with, another employee's exercise of their rights under the grievance system. To be fully effective, the spirit as well as the letter of this non-interference requirement must be enforced. It is not enough for an official to abstain from overt threats or interference. Employees should refrain from making any statement or taking any action, which has the appearance or even the flavor of a threat, interference, or intimidation. Any violation of this section will be subject to Adverse Action under Section 11.303 of the Personnel Rules and Regulations shall be grounds for immediate termination of the offending supervisor or management official.

Section 5. STEP 1 - INFORMAL GRIEVANCE PROCEDURES

A. Management Responsibility

An employee's grievance may or may not be objectively justified. What is important is that the grievance is real to the employee. When the grievance is well founded, management officials have both a duty and a need to eliminate the cause. When the grievance is not well founded, it is equally important to reach an understanding based on the full facts. Therefore, the informal procedure should assure consideration of every employee's grievance with a degree of promptness, sympathy, understanding, fairness, competence, and authority which convinces the employee of fair treatment.

B. Settlement at the Lowest Possible Level of Management

The informal procedures should be as simple as possible consonant with bonafide consideration of grievances. It should encourage settlement of matters at the lowest possible administrative level in the shortest possible time and should not, therefore, require any written explanation from the employee. The employee may present the grievance under the informal procedures, either orally or in writing, and should not be prevented from submitting a written explanation if so desired.

C. Supervisor's Responsibility

1. Normal day-to-day discussions between employees and supervisors regarding working conditions and related employment matters are the most constructive and expeditious means of developing and enhancing favorable and effective work relationships.
2. Each employee has the right to present matters to the supervisor, and each supervisor has the obligation to act promptly and fairly upon them.

D. Employee's Responsibility

1. Each employee is expected to make a concerted effort to achieve informal settlement of the grievance. The employee should promptly bring the grievance to the attention of the appropriate supervisory level.
2. Tolling Period: In counting the number of days for each step, if the last day of the period falls on a weekend, the filing time or receipt time falls on the next working day.

E. Using the Informal Grievance Procedure - Step 1

1. Initiation by Employee

In keeping with the personal nature of matters covered by grievance procedures, only employees can initiate grievances, singly or jointly. They may not be initiated by employee organizations. Employee organizations may be permitted to present a grievance on behalf of an employee or a group of employees when requested to do so by the employee or employees.

2. Time Limit

a. An employee may present a grievance to the immediate supervisor concerning a continuing practice or condition at any time. Grievances concerning a particular act or occurrence must be presented within fifteen (15) calendar days of when the grievant knew or should have known of the action or occurrence.

b. The grievant's immediate supervisor shall render a decision within ten (10) calendar days of the presentation of the grievance.

3. Form of the Grievance

An employee may present a grievance under the informal procedure either orally or in writing.

4. Non-rejection Provision

A grievance may not be rejected in the informal procedure for any reason.

If the grievance is not timely or consists of a matter not covered under the grievance system, the employee should be so advised but must be allowed to submit the grievance under the formal procedures if grievant insists.

5. Mandatory Use of the Informal Procedure

An employee must complete the informal procedure before the Authority may accept a grievance concerning the same matter under the formal procedure.

The inquiry will typically include the securing of documentary evidence and personal interviews in an effort to fully understand the issues and obtain the maximum information available pertinent to the issues. Committee meetings shall not be postponed, delayed or canceled for failure of any member's attendance at scheduled meetings, but all meetings require a quorum of at least 2 members.

5. Grievance File

This is an independent file, separate and distinct from the personnel folder. The grievance file must contain all documents pertaining to the grievance including:

- a. Statements of witnesses;
- b. Records or copies of records; and
- c. Reports of personal interviews.

6. Open Record

The grievance file is an open record. It is open for review by the employee and his representative and must not contain any document that is not available to the employee.
